Course Description

The Liberal Arts in Action course directs students to analyze an engaging topic - in this case, the two preeminent dystopian fictions of the last 100 years, Aldous Huxley's Brave New World and George Orwell's Nineteen Eighty-Four -- from multiple perspectives in the liberal arts. Students strengthen their problem-solving skills by drawing upon the ideas and methods of three different liberal arts disciplines. The learning activities clarify how the liberal arts can be put into action to ponder and address problems. The course strengthens students' development of critical thinking and academic writing across the curriculum. Students also will learn about resources that will be useful for their academic success at DePaul.

SCPS Student Learning Outcomes

After completing this course, you will be able to:

- Identify, compare and contrast the questions, methods of inquiry and kinds of evidence that characterize three liberal arts approaches to knowing.
- Compare and contrast the uses of writing in each of these approaches.
- Examine liberal arts topics using artistic interpretation, ethical inquiry, and social analysis approaches.

Learning Outcomes for SNC 227: Liberal Studies Program - Arts & Literature Domain

- Students will be able to explain, in well-written prose, what a work of art is about and/or how it was produced (i.e., they should be able to explain the content of that work and/or its methodology of production).
- Students will be able to comment on the relationship between form and content in a work.
- Students will be able to assess the formal aspects of their subject and put those qualities into words using, when appropriate, specialized vocabulary employed in class and readings.
- Students will be able to contextualize a work of art. They will be able to do so with respect to other works of art in terms of defining its place within a broader style or genre. They will also be able to contextualize a work of art in terms of contemporaneous aesthetic, social or political concerns, discussing how these might shape the work's reception and how that reception might differ amongst various people and historical periods.

Learning Strategies and Resources

Some learning activities, assignments and deadlines will vary depending on the delivery format of the course and may differ slightly from what is presented in this document.

This course will engage closely with two masterworks, Nineteen Eighty-Four and Brave New World (and related subtopics) from three liberal arts perspectives. We will consider them from the perspective of artistic interpretation, the perspective of philosophy and ethics, and the perspective of social analysis -- the organizational possibilities of communities and societies.

Required Readings

Books and learning materials are available at the DePaul bookstore, at <http://depaul-loop.bncollege.com>, or through alternative sources.

Huxley, Aldous. Brave New World. Harper Perennial, 2006. ISBN 978-0-06-085052-4 [Note: Huxley's novel comes in many editions. Be sure to acquire this edition and not another. An electronic version—as long as it's this Harper Perennial edition—is acceptable, if you prefer that to a hard copy]
